

55 ROUTE FROM JUBERRI TO LA RABASSA

HIKING IN ANDORRA

DON'T MISS...

The thrills of the Tobotronic, the longest alpine roller coaster in the world, 5.3 km long, which runs from between 1,600-metre and 2,000-metre altitudes, with a 400-metre drop.

DID YOU KNOW?...

Andorra was admitted to the United Nations on 28 July 1993, an event that won it international recognition.

TOPONYMY

Juberri: From the Latin iugus, meaning “yoke”, but ending with erri, from the Basque meaning “place or town”. From this town, there are several different denominations and, perhaps, separate groups.

Arriving at Conangle

Field maple
(Acer campestre)

Least weasel
(Mustela nivalis)

Juberri Gardens

The route presented here leaves from the town of Juberri and follows a stretch of the GRP, the main national road that runs all over Andorra. The starting point is surrounded by black poplar (Populus nigra) and ash trees (Fraxinus excelsior), which benefit from the humidity produced by a small stream.

Abundant in this area are trees such as the cherry (Prunus avium), which produces sweet fruit during springtime. You may also see a fairly interesting tree that is rare in Andorra, the field maple (Acer campestre). Further along, you'll see grape vines (Vitis vinifera) and some pear (Pyrus communis) and apple trees (Pyrus malus), as well as fields of tobacco. On the final stretch of the route, the path is surrounded by ash trees and a black mulberry tree (Morus nigra).

The most common animals that inhabit the area include small mammals like the least weasel (Mustela nivalis) and the red fox (Vulpes vulpes). Even if you are not lucky enough to see a fox, you may be able to infer their presence by the droppings they leave behind. Notable birds include the warbler (Sylvia sp.), the tit (Parus sp.) and the robin (Erithacus rubecula).
